

G. 6 : How-to Essay
(Final Draft)

Writing Assignment:

“The Declaration of the Rights of the Child” is a public document, Write an Essay on the steps of the rights that the child has in the document and according to their order of importance.

Please write in complete sentences, simple sentences and compound sentences.
Please write font “Times New Roman: Size 12 .

Write 5 paragraphs as follows:

– Introduction paragraph(4-5 sentences)

3 body paragraphs ( 6-8 sentences each)

Conclusion (4-5 sentences)

Type your essay here:

The Rights of the Child

The U.N. wrote these rights Because of child awareness ,to give children their rights

It can be very shocking to know that kids around the world are being forced to work. Kids are the ones working for money! It was the spark that evoked the U.N. and children rights activists to stand up and ask for (Children’s rights). Children's rights have been a big issue on the U.N. table. The U.N. came up with several rights to declare and insure the benefit of the children around the world. Children's rights in this public document are ordered according to importance and were put into place to build children's characters and to protect them.

U.N.’s vision in ordering the rights of the child ascendingly from the most important to the least

The U.N. found out that there are basic and essential rights that should come with every child by default, that's why they made sure to put them in the beginning of the document. You as an adult should know them by heart. The first right is the Rights of physical, mental, spiritual, and social rights and in that right they asked for insurance that all these factors are guaranteed for every child. Then the right of name and nationality which makes the child recognized by every governmental institute in his or her country. Nowadays we know that health comes first, so the right of health and medical services is important to every child.

The rights which they came up with to develop the children's personality

Your personality may defer for others and that's how it is. it's like a piece of art that you sketch throughout the years. From this point of view the U.N. started another group of rights. The first one is the right of disabled children. Children with disabilities need special care and special education. This is why the U.N. gave them these rights and to teach us how to treat them as one of us and have our personality developed. Moreover, The right of Love and understanding with/ without parents and the right of education.

The U.N. framed protection in three rights

Protection means to feel safe somewhere or around someone. The first right in this topic is the right of protection and relief. It means that the child needs to feel safe and relieved at all times. Another right is the right of no early employment. This right means that kids shouldn't work at a young age, some kids have to work at the age of 5! The last right is the right of no discrimination. This right means that kids shouldn't be bullied for having a different nationality or a different skin tone or even having a different personality. These rights should be applied to every child because in my opinion they're really important.

As we live in a modern society more rights should be added to the declaration of the rights of the children. Children deserve a bit more rights than these. For me one of the rights can be that homework shouldn't exist. Homework pressures the children and we barely get any free time, as long as they participate in the session and understand it they shouldn't have homework. As a wrap up Children's rights are important to build children's characters and to protect them.